ATTAINING SPIRITUALITY

Spirituality is something seldom attained but which is always sought for. It can take place through the loving work of service, devotion to prayer, and virtuous living. Spirituality is not something we turn on at a particular place or time. To be spiritual is a habit of life, a continuous state of being. When we reduce spirituality to something that runs alongside life, then it has no power and it is no longer the dynamic force of life itself. Just refraining from things does not create a better spiritual life. We have to continue to seek and embrace spirituality throughout our lives.
